Introduction

Israeli occupation forces (IOF) continue to impose a stifling siege on Gaza's waters, therewith hampering Palestinian maritime activities, which particularly affect Palestinian fishermen, whose fishing zone is limited to three to six nautical miles off the coast, depending on Israeli authorities' alternating decisions.

Since October 2000, Palestinian fishermen have been struggling to deal with the constantly diminishing fishing zone. Ever since, they have been prohibited from reaching the 20 nautical miles limit, which was agreed upon in the Oslo Accords¹ signed between Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization. As of the year 2000, Israeli authorities imposed a new limit of 12 nautical miles, and then lowered it to six and three nautical miles at times. However, Israeli authorities kept targeting Palestinian fishermen and hindering their fishing activities even inside of the Israeli-imposed fishing zone.

The Israeli authorities are practically prohibiting Palestinian fishermen from entering 85% of the fishing zone granted under the Oslo Accords and their annexes. In addition, the IOF regularly open fire at fishermen, force them to undress and swim in cold seawater before arresting them, and destroy or confiscate their fishing boats and equipment. Furthermore, during nighttime, the IOF uses high-pressure water cannons to damage and partially submerge small, unmanned fishing boats, left in the sea to mark the location of a previously cast net. Most of the time, these violations occur within the imposed fishing zone, i.e. within three or six nautical miles.

According to fishermen's accounts, the seabed within the 6-nautical miles zone is covered mostly with sand and is as such ill-suited for aquatic life, whereas fish can be found in abundance beyond 12 nautical miles.

Due to IOF practices, Palestinian fishermen have become one of the poorest communities in the society, while other industries that are dependent on fishing, such as boat construction, maintenance of fishing equipment, and fish merchants have also suffered immensely.

In the context of promoting and protecting human rights and the rules of international humanitarian law (IHL), Al Mezan Center for Human Rights (Al Mezan) continues with monitoring and documentation activities to expose and prevent violations. This report has been prepared in order to pave the way to seeking reparation² and demanding accountability. It provides an overview of the naval part of Access Restricted Area (ARA) and discusses Israeli violations of IHL. It also examines maritime borders within the historical context, and presents the IHL stand on Israeli practices.

The report deals with all incidents occurring in the naval part of ARA where the IOF has limited all fishing activities to 6 nautical miles off the coast of Gaza Strip. The report documents systematic and frequent violations against Palestinian fishermen. It highlights measures and practices that constitute violations of International Human Rights Law (IHRL) and IHL, particularly the practice of limiting the fishing zone and targeting fishermen within the imposed fishing zone.

This report covers the period between 1 January 2016 and 31 March 2016, summarizes the IOF violations against Palestinian fishermen inside the naval part of ARA, and is supported with documented and verified statistics.

The Gaza Strip

Location:

Gaza Strip is a stretch of land situated along the Mediterranean Sea. It borders with the Mediterranean in the west, Egypt in the south, and Israel in the north and the east. From north to south, the Strip extends to about 40 kilometers, with a width varying between six and 12 kilometers from east to west. The surface area is 365 square kilometers, and is divided into five districts³: North Gaza, Gaza, Deir Al Balah, Khan Younis, and Rafah.

Population:

According to estimates by the Palestinian Central Bureau of Statistics (PCBS), and based on the results of the Population, Housing and Establishment Census from 2007, the total population in Palestine in mid-2015 was about 4.68 million; 2.38 million males and 2.30 million females. The estimated population of the Gaza Strip amounted to 1.82 million, 925.000 of which were males and 895.000 females.

The percentage of urban population in mid-2015 was 73.9%, while the percentages of population in rural areas and refugee camps were 16.7% and 9.4%, respectively.⁴

Population density in Palestine is generally high at 778 persons/km². Population density in the West Bank was 506 persons/km², while it reached 4,986 persons/km² in the Gaza Strip.⁵

Standard of living:

The standard of living has plummeted significantly since the beginning of the second Intifada due to the constant Israeli targeting of Palestinian civilian facilities, especially industrial and commercial, and leveling of farmlands. In addition to the strict blockade imposed on the Gaza Strip, targeting of civilian facilities has led to a sharp rise in unemployment rate and poverty. The fishing industry and Palestinian fishermen are among the most severely hit by the stifling blockade and the continuing violations in the sea. This has forced many fishermen to abandon their only mean of livelihood, while fishermen who chose to remain in this business are suffering from attacks that put their lives in danger on an almost daily basis. The ever-shrinking fishing zone and the increasing fuel prices make it even harder for fishermen to earn a decent living and put them under the poverty line.⁶

⁶ The official poverty line was established in 1997 by the National Commission for Poverty Alleviation

According to consumption patterns in 2011, the poverty rate among Palestinian individuals was 25.8 (17.8% in the West Bank, and 38.8% in Gaza Strip), and 12.9% of all individuals in Palestine were suffering from deep poverty in 2011 (7.8% in the West Bank, and 21.1% in Gaza Strip). According to consumption patterns⁷ measured in 2011 in Palestine, the threshold for relative poverty line amounts to 2,293 NIS, while the threshold for deep poverty line is 1,832 NIS.⁸

Background

The Oslo Accords and annexes signed between the government of Israel and the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO), was the first document to impose restrictions on the fishermen's freedom of movement in the Gaza sea and to place limits on distance that fishermen are allowed to cover. Although Al Mezan rejects the use of the Oslo Accords to define the relation between civilians in the oPt and the Israeli occupation, and stresses that the rules of IHL and IHRL should be the main references instead, however, we list below some of the terms stipulated under the Oslo Accords and Annexes to show how Israel is breaching its bilateral agreements in addition to violating the rules of the IHL.

🚩 Oslo Accords and Annexes, and regulating fishing activities⁹:

The Palestinian-Israeli agreements specified a limit of 20 nautical miles¹⁰ off the coast as the maximum distance for fishing activities, and two no-go zones in the north and the south in the Gaza sea.

The agreements divided the maritime zones as follows:

A. Extent of Maritime Activity Zones

The sea off the coast of the Gaza Strip will be divided into three Maritime Activity Zones, K, L, and M, as detailed below:

1) Zones K and M:

- Zone K extends to 20 nautical miles in the sea from the coast in the northern part of the sea of Gaza and 1.5 nautical miles wide southwards.
- Zone M extends to 20 nautical miles in the sea from the coast, and one nautical mile wide from the Egyptian waters.
- Subject to the provisions of this paragraph, Zones K and M will be closed areas, in which navigation will be restricted to activity of the Israel Navy.

¹⁰ One nautical mile is equivalent to 1852 meters.

2) Zone L:

- Zone L bounded to the south by Zone M and to the north by Zone K extends 20 nautical miles into the sea from the coast.
- Zone L will be open for fishing, recreation and economic activities, in accordance with the following provisions:
 1. Fishing boats will not exit Zone L into the open sea and may have engines of up to a limit of 25 HP for outboard motors and up to a maximum speed of 15 knots for inboard motors. The boats will neither carry weapons nor ammunition nor will they fish with the use of explosives.
 2. Recreational boats will be permitted to sail up to a distance of three nautical miles from the coast unless, in special cases, otherwise agreed within the Maritime Coordination and Cooperation Center ... Recreational boats may have engines up to a limit of 10 horsepower. Marine motor bikes and water jets will neither be introduced into Zone L nor be operated therein.
 3. Foreign vessels entering Zone L will not approach closer than 12 nautical miles from the coast ...

B. General Rules of the Maritime Activity Zones

- The aforementioned fishing boats and recreational boats and their skippers sailing in Zone L shall carry licenses issued by the Palestinian Authority, the format and standards of which will be coordinated through the Joint Security Coordination and Cooperation Committee (JSC).
- The boats shall have identification markings determined by the Palestinian Authority. The Israeli authorities will be notified through the JSC of these identification markings.
- Residents of Israeli settlements in the Gaza Strip fishing in Zone L will carry Israeli licenses and vessel permits.
- As part of Israel's responsibilities for safety and security within the three Maritime Activity Zones, Israel Navy vessels may sail throughout these zones, as necessary and without limitations, and may take any measures necessary against vessels suspected of being used for terrorist activities or for smuggling arms, ammunition, drugs, goods, or for any other illegal activity. The Palestinian Police will be notified of such actions, and the ensuing procedures will be coordinated through the Maritime Coordination and Cooperation Center.

Israel has been breaching the aforementioned terms of agreement since 9 October 2000, when the Palestinian fishermen were banned from reaching the 20 miles demarcation line and restricted to 12 nautical miles instead. Later on, the distance was lowered to six nautical miles and, in some occasions, to three nautical miles. In addition, Israeli gunboats continued to target Palestinian fishermen on almost-daily basis causing death and injury, and continued to detain fishermen and confiscate or destroy their boats and equipment.¹¹

Israeli practices against Palestinian fishermen are contrary to paragraph two (II) of Article (1) in both the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ICESCR) and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR), which states: “All peoples may, for their own ends, freely dispose of their natural wealth and resources without prejudice to any obligations arising out of international economic co-operation, based upon the principle of mutual benefit, and international law. In no case may a people be deprived of its own means of subsistence”.¹²

In addition, these practices constitute a grave violation of the ICESCR which states in Article (6), paragraph one (I): “The States Parties to the present Covenant recognize the right to work, which includes the right of everyone to the opportunity to gain his living by work which he freely chooses or accepts, and will take appropriate steps to safeguard this right”.

Furthermore, Israeli practices contradict paragraph one (I) of Article (23) of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights which states: “Everyone has the right to work, to free choice of employment, to just and favorable conditions of work and to protection against unemployment”.¹³

Israel, by constantly assaulting and targeting Palestinian fishermen, is violating Article (6) of the ICCPR which states: “Every human being has the inherent right to life. This right shall be protected by law. No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of his life”¹⁴, and Article (12) as well, which states: “Everyone lawfully within the territory of a State shall, within that territory, have the right to liberty of movement ...”

¹² The International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ICESCR) adopted and opened for signature, ratification and accession by UN General Assembly resolution 2200A (XXI) of 16 December 1966. Entry into force 3 January 1976, in accordance with article 27.

¹³ The Universal Declaration of Human Rights was proclaimed by the United Nations General Assembly on 10 December 1948 (General Assembly resolution 217 A)

¹⁴ International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR) adopted and opened for signature, ratification and accession by UN General Assembly resolution 2200A (XXI) of 16 December 1966. Entry into force 23 March 1976, in accordance with article 49.

Israel's practices contradict the Fourth Geneva Convention, which states in Article (52): "... all measures aiming at creating unemployment or at restricting the opportunities offered to workers in an occupied territory, in order to induce them to work for the Occupying Power, are prohibited".¹⁵ Furthermore, Article (33) prohibited collective punishment and reprisals, stating that: "No protected person may be punished for an offence he or she has not personally committed. Collective penalties and likewise all measures of intimidation or of terrorism are prohibited. Pillage is prohibited. Reprisals against protected persons and their property are prohibited."

IOF Violations against Fishermen in the naval part of Access Restricted Area

The IOF continue to impose a stifling maritime siege on the Gaza Strip and assault Palestinian fishermen. In the first quarter of 2016, the IOF continued to impose a limit of 6 nautical miles off coast for fishing activities, while enforcing a one and a half nautical mile limit and one nautical mile limit parallel to northern and southern borders respectively; this has denied fishermen access to areas with abundance of fish. The IOF regularly open fire towards fishermen, force them to take off their clothes, and swim in cold seawater towards Israeli navy boats before arresting them. In addition, their boats and equipment are either destroyed or confiscated, and taken to Ashdod seaport.

According to Al Mezan’s monitoring and documentation during the first quarter of 2016, 29 violations against fishermen were committed, resulting in wounding of five fishermen and detention of 19. The detained fishermen were taken to Israel, and released after a few hours. In addition, six fishing boats were confiscated in four separate incidents, and Israeli navy destroyed fishing equipment i.e. fishing nets and lights in three separate incidents.

Arrests:

Israeli naval forces continued to arrest and detain fishermen. Before the arrest, fishermen were made to remove their clothes and swim towards Israeli naval boats. They were detained for several hours and were subjected to inhuman and degrading treatment. During the reporting period, 19 fishermen were arrested in four separate incidents; they were all released after being detained for several hours.

Conclusion

The report shows the scale of Israeli violations against Palestinian fishermen in the Gaza Strip, and the extent of damage suffered by the fishing sector as a result of the maritime siege and the constant targeting of fishermen.

The report aims at exposing Israeli violations and providing documented information to the international community, particularly the High Contracting Parties to the Fourth Geneva Convention, to uphold their legal and moral responsibilities, and intervene to end the maritime siege. Further, the report is an additional tool dedicated to peace activists standing in solidarity with Palestinians to support their efforts in exerting pressure on foreign governments to fulfill their obligations, end the violations, and hold the perpetrators of such violations accountable.

The escalating violations against Palestinian fishermen, even within the Israeli-imposed fishing zone, raise concerns that the aim no longer rests on the notion of collective punishment, but represents financial incentive as well. Israel is deliberately depriving Palestinians from utilizing their natural resources, and is exploiting these resources for its own benefit. Israel is deliberately depriving Palestinians from utilizing their natural resources, while exporting its own products such as fish from fishing farms from Israel to the Gaza Strip.

Accordingly, Al Mezan reiterates its condemnation of the ongoing Israeli violations against Palestinian fishermen. Al Mezan stresses that a fisherman's right to work is an inherent human right, and that the IOF is committing systematic violations of IHL articles and IHRL by repeatedly targeting fishermen, often resulting in death, injury, and arbitrary arrest in a degrading manner, as well as depriving fishermen of their livelihoods and the right to work.

Al Mezan reiterates its calls on the international community to intervene to protect civilians and put an end to Israeli violations against them. Al Mezan reaffirms that the Gaza Strip is an integral and inalienable part of the occupied Palestinian territory, and that any measures taken by the IOF cannot change this reality. The occupying force is required to fulfill its obligations under the international law, which not only prohibits violations, but also dictates the respect and realization of human rights for the civilian residents in the occupied territory.

Al Mezan denounces the silence of the international community and its disregard for its legal obligations under international law, particularly the Fourth Geneva Convention, towards the civilian population in the occupied Palestinian territory. Al Mezan asserts that the silence of the international community has encouraged Israel to escalate the perpetration of practices that amount to serious violations of international law.

Al Mezan reiterates its calls on the international community, particularly the High Contracting Parties to the Fourth Geneva Convention, to exert pressure on Israel to ensure respect for international law and abolish the closure/blockade policy imposed on Gaza without further delay.
